RFCU announces Youth Advisory Council

Special to the Journal

Per a release: Robins Federal Credit Union knows that our future depends on our younger generations. That's why they have made it their priority to learn how to better serve young adults. One step they have taken to do this is by establishing a Youth Advisory Council.

The council consists of 15 16-24-year-olds that, according to the release, will be the voice for young adults and help Robins Federal become the financial institution of choice for this age group.

Throughout their one year term, the Robins Federal Youth Advisory Council will offer input on various products, services, and other projects that target young adults in an effort to help them build a sound financial future.

The 2009 Youth Advisory Council Members are:

- Spencer Anderson, Macon State College
- Cody Ashcroft, Bleckley High School
- Katie Crumbley, University of Georgia
- Bria Daniels, Houston County High School
- Erica Eaton, Mercer University
- Brittany Epps, Westside High School
